The ACE mission is to improve reporting of complications and regulation within the medical aesthetics sector. ACE constantly strive to raise standards and improve patient safety.

The Joint Council for Cosmetic Practitioners (JCCP), was formally launched In February 2018 as a 'self-regulating' body for the non-surgical aesthetics and hair restoration sector in the United Kingdom and has achieved Professional Standards Authority (PSA) recognition and charitable status. The charitable status reflects the overarching not-for-profit mission of the JCCP which is to improve patient safety and public protection. The concept of the JCCP was envisioned by the Department of Health and was inspired by Health Education England on behalf of NHS England and the Department of Health.

The JCCP and ACE have common objectives that focus specifically around patient safety and public protection. A set of common objectives have been agreed as part of a Memorandum of Understanding between both parties and are as follows:

- ❖ To work as Key Partners, utilising the skills and expertise of both organisations.
- ❖ To support the implementation and alignment of the JCCP Competence Framework Standards that serve as the basis for the Aesthetic Industry education and training standard (as endorsed by Health Education England, the Cosmetic Practice Standards Authority and by the United Kingdom Accreditation Service).

- ❖ To raise and share issues of concern regarding activities of aesthetic practitioners, where client/patient safety/public protection has been considered to have been compromised.
- ❖ To encourage aesthetic practitioners to engage in reflection and continuous professional development, with regard to patient safety, public protection and the promotion of positive health and wellbeing in order to further develop and improve their practice.
- ❖ To jointly publicise and promote the work and aims of both organisations to raise public and professional awareness of best practice within and across the sector.
- ❖ To always work collaboratively to establish, maintain and further the credibility and reputation of both organisations in accordance with their explicit aims and objectives.
- ❖ To collect and share information to inform best, safe, and productive practice within the aesthetic sector and seek to promote a culture of future innovation and development in association with relevant advice from members of the aesthetic industry in the UK.
- ❖ To provide support to each other by sharing partners' unique skills with each other to facilitate excellence in practice, education, training and about the use of lawful and safe products within the context of safe premises.

These areas of common interest include, but are not limited to matters that relate to promoting the use of appropriate standards of practitioner practice, to safeguard the public, promoting the implementation and dissemination of robust education and training standards, promoting the public interest as a primary concern and seeking to sponsor the implementation and sustainability of a culture that encourages consumer safety and the creation of a community of excellence in practice across the aesthetics industry.

Professor David Sines CBE – Executive Chair, JCCP

‘I am delighted that the JCCP and ACE World have been able to reach agreement on joint working. Both organizations are focussed on patient safety and public protection as core objectives. Membership of both organizations is growing rapidly as is the demand from members for more support, education, training and CPD. By working together we can combine expertise across the world of non-surgical treatments, complications and aesthetics delivering added value to our registrants’.
